

MANDALAY DRAWS VISITORS TO BURMA

American Taxists Take Tourists to Holy Places of Buddhist Religion.

WHERE KIPLING ERRED.

No Flying Fishes Near and China Not 'Just Across the Bay.'

MANDALAY, Burma, Aug. 19.—With its thousand pagodas, its deserted palaces and its picturesque ruins, the city of Mandalay continues to be a place of chief attraction for the European or American visitor to Burma. The palace grounds, surrounded by a wall and moat, are about a mile and a half square. The buildings have a cheap gaudiness about them which compares in many ways to that of an American street carnival. Still preserved are the throne rooms and the apartments of the king, the senior queen and numerous junior queens. Mindon Min, the next to last king of Burma, married fifty-seven wives—seeking, evidently, to discover what the "57 varieties" are like. From the palace grounds an American taxist takes the visitor to the foot of Mandalay hill, one of the holy places of Burma. Here those who are adherents of the Buddhist religion are willing to remove their footwear may obtain great merit by climbing the nearly 400 steps which lead to the summit. The zayats (rest houses) built at the foot of the hill are interesting chiefly on account of the pictures which appear along the walls. Most of these depict supposed incidents in the life of Gautama Buddha and provide good instances of an inconsistency which is typical of Burmese. Though Buddha was an Indian he is always pictured in Burmese clothes. And though he lived about 500 years before the time of Christ, electric lights and electric fans are to be seen in the same room with him. Arakan pagoda, on the other side of the city, presents a striking appearance by its being plastered over with gold leaf. The image housed here was stolen and carried away from Arakan by the Burmese in 1784. It was cast during the reign of a king who succeeded to the throne of Arakan in the year A. D. 146. The old Burman kings used to try to please Buddha by making war on their neighbors, carrying off, as the fruits of victory, all the images they could find. Mandalay has been dwindling in population since it ceased to be the capital of Burma. People say that every other man in town is a monk, and one out in the street early in the morning would almost believe that this is true. There are usually several yellow gowns and black begging bowls for each block. Although there are already more than 1,000 pagodas in and about the city, new ones are now in process of construction. Many Americans have been confused as to the exact location of Mandalay by a couple of geographical errors, which occur in Kipling's well known song. It could hardly be "where the flying fishes play," when the sea is over a hundred miles distant. And China isn't "just across the bay," but is just across the mountains instead. Just across the bay is India. AMERICA DISAPPOINTS KRASSINE VERY MUCH Believes Soviet Can Expect Nothing From Washington. Special Cable to THE NEW YORK HERALD. Copyright, 1922, by THE NEW YORK HERALD. Moscow, Aug. 14 (delayed).—On August 9 Leonid Krassine delivered a speech in which he admitted that "the relations between Russia and the United States are incredibly bad." He said that from the Soviet Government's viewpoint nothing could be expected from Washington. This despite the fact that individual prominent Americans on several occasions seemed to create the impression that a resumption of relations was possible. He added: "It is one of the most grievous disappointments in diplomatic circles for me to have to state this."

VETERINARIANS TO MEET IN ST. LOUIS

Secretary Tells of Control of Animal Diseases in This Country.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—The fifty-fifth annual meeting of the American Veterinary Medical Association, claimed to be the largest organization of its kind in the world, and including in its membership the leading veterinarians of this and other countries, will be held in St. Louis, August 28 to September 1, it was announced today. The association was organized for the promotion of professional interests, to elevate the standard of veterinary education and to protect the livestock industry as well as the public health by the prevention and control of animal diseases," it was stated by N. S. Mayo, Chicago, secretary. "As a result of the efforts of this association, the United States has the best organization for the prevention and control of animal diseases of any country in the world," Mr. Mayo continued. "The system of veterinary inspection of meat food products also is unsurpassed." The address of welcome will be delivered by Gov. Hyde of Missouri at the opening meeting of the convention on Monday, August 28, with the response by Dr. Tait Butler, followed by the address of the president, Dr. A. T. Kinsley of Kansas City. Among the speakers will be Dr. George A. Young, Syracuse, Neb.; Dr. F. O. Killian, St. Louis; Dr. Charles W. Boer, Topeka, Kan.; Dr. Louis A. Klein, Philadelphia; Dr. W. L. Boyd, St. Paul; Dr. J. G. Perneyhough, Richmond, Va.; Dr. H. Preston, Detroit; Dr. M. Dorset, C. N. McBryde and W. B. Niles, Bureau of Animal Husbandry, Washington; Dr. J. G. Hardenberg and S. D. Brimhall of the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn.; Dr. L. W. Goss, Columbus, Ohio.

BERLIN WILL TEST TOWER IN TRAFFIC

Traffic Commissioner Harris Explains New York System to City Officials.

Special Correspondence to THE NEW YORK HERALD. BERLIN, Aug. 5.—Traffic Commissioner Dr. John A. Harris of New York, when he was in Berlin arranged for the installation of one of the traffic signal towers now in use in New York for a test in the most congested districts here. Berlin traffic, according to the police, has been growing throughout this year. The newspapers charge that the police are poorly distributed, there being none on the streets most used by speeders, while they are concentrated where there is no congestion. They cite more than a dozen accidents of a serious nature a day all through the summer and in many instances children have been victims. Taxicab drivers are especially blamed for reckless driving while private car owners as well violate speed rules but are seldom arrested because of the difficulty in obtaining their numbers. In the Bayern quarter, the newspapers say, where there are many children, the conditions are especially bad and children who dare not venture upon the streets often see their pet dogs killed by flying autos. Tiergartenstrasse, extending along the great park in the heart of Berlin, is also a track for speeders. Commissioner Harris when he spent much time with the Berlin police explaining New York traffic handling and planning the tower experiment will not only be tried but within a short time the traffic policemen of the city will be rearranged as to stations. Berlin at present has no hand signals of any kind except the hand signals of the crossing guards.
